

The National Museum of Transportation Mask Policy

Effective Monday, July 26, 2021

Per St. Louis County mandate, all individuals five years of age and older, including fully vaccinated individuals, are required to wear a mask indoors at The National Museum of Transportation, including when riding the miniature train, trolley, or in train cars. A supply of masks is available at several locations.

Drinking fountains reopened on May 24, 2021.

Creation Station 'Boarding Time' capacity increased to 30 per session on June 1, 2021.

Guided tours through passenger cars resumed on July 1, 2021. Tours are limited to six individuals plus the guide. All individuals on train car tours must wear a mask.

Mezzanine capacity for events/meetings is 40.

All plexiglass barriers will remain in place until further notice.

We will continue to monitor CDC and state and local government announcements and adjust our policy when necessary.
